Kopeck Holdings Private Equity Fund
Prospectus dated January 4, 2016

Fund Overview

Investment Objective

The investment objective of Kopeck Holdings Private Equity Fund (Limited Partnership) (the "Fund") is to seek long-term capital appreciation. Through the Fund, investors will gain exposure to private equity investments, including secondary and primary investments in private equity and other private asset funds and, to a limited degree, in direct investments in operating companies.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has not approved or disapproved this Limited Partnership or passed upon the adequacy of this Prospectus. Any representation to the contrary is a criminal offense.

The Fund should be considered a speculative investment and entails substantial risks, and a prospective investor should invest in the Fund only if the investor can sustain a complete loss of its investment.

Principal Investment Strategies of the Fund

Private equity is an asset class typically consisting of equity securities and debt in operating companies that are not publicly traded on a stock exchange. Private equity consists of investors and funds that typically make investments directly into private companies or conduct buyouts of public companies that typically result in a delisting of public equity. Limited Liability Investment Partnerships are typically structured as seven year partnerships, where capital is called and investments are made in years zero to one and sold in years five to seven.

Types of private equity investments that the Fund may make include:

Secondary Investments. Secondary investments, or "secondaries," refer to investments in existing Investment Funds that are typically acquired in privately negotiated transactions.
Primary Investments. Primary investments, or "primaries," refer to investments in newly established businesses, typically sponsored by Asset Managers. Primary investments are made during a private equity partnerships' initial fundraising period in the form of capital commitments, which are then called down by the Asset Managers and utilized to finance its investments during a predefined period.

Direct Investments. Direct investments refers to an investment in an operating company by the partnership, as opposed to an investment in an Investment Fund that, in turn, invests in operating companies. The partnership may make a direct investment in an operating company on its own, or as a co-investor alongside other investors.

Investment Opportunities. In pursuing the Fund's investment objective, the Asset Manager will seek to invest in Investment Funds and direct investments representing a broad spectrum of private equity investment opportunities, including buyout, growth capital, special situations, credit, venture capital, private infrastructure, real estate, real assets, and/or other private assets. Control investments in established, cash flow positive companies are usually classified as buyouts. Growth capital typically involves minority investments in established companies with strong growth characteristics and does not typically utilize much, if any, leverage. Companies that receive growth capital investments typically are profitable businesses that need capital for organic and acquisition growth strategies and shareholder liquidity. A special situations investment may include a loan to a borrower, together with equity in the form of warrants, common stock, preferred stock or some other form of equity investment. In addition, special situations investments may include other forms of investment not described herein, such as distressed debt and turnaround investments. Credit investments may include investments in senior secured bank loans through structured vehicles and other investment products, as well as debt investments that provide a middle level of financing below the senior debt level and above the equity level. Venture capital investments generally focus on emerging companies, often in the technology and healthcare industries. Venture capital funds typically finance companies along the full path of development or focus on certain sub-stages (usually classified as seed, early, and late stage) in partnership with other investors. Private infrastructure may include companies and Investment Funds that focus on utilities infrastructure (e.g., conventional and renewable power and transmission, electricity, gas and water networks) and/or transportation infrastructure (e.g., airports, ports, railways, and roads). Real estate investments may include single-unit and multiunit property real estate opportunities in the United States and abroad, and operating companies with significant real estate portfolios. Investments in real assets may provide exposure to real estate, commodities, natural resources (such as agriculture and timber), infrastructure, and precious metals. Other private investments may include opportunities in other assets.

The first year fees will be drafted from the initial investment, including any expenses. In years two through the close of the Limited Partnership, all fees and expenses will be drafted on a quarterly basis, prior to any distribution to shareholders and or equity stake holders.
